CONGRESS VERY BUSY

Takes Up Many Different Lines of Investigation in Various Committees Today.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The millions which the First National Bank of New York has available for investment were disclosed at today's hearing of George F. Baker, chairman of the bank board before the house money trust investigation committee.

The right of labor to organize and to be exempt from injunction without notice in labor disputes was the basis of another argument before the senate judiciary committee today by Samuel Gompers president of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Gompers declared that much of the arguments against the anti-injunction bill which already has passed the house was based on court decisions and precedents that were wrong in the beginning and that violated all of the private rights of labor. The iron and steel schedule "C" was taken up today by the house ways and means committee, when it resumed hearings on tariff revision. Two days will probably be devoted to this important section and many steel men are expected to be heard.

Chairman Underwood said the proposition was to make all articles on the dutiable list pay some reasonable duty.

Confirmation of some of President Taft's recent appointments is expected in the senate within the next week. Democratic leaders working on a plan permitting endorsement of some of the appointments without approving all, believe that they will reach a basis to confirm some of the nominations without acting on those they regard as most objectionable. The proposal to put printing presses on the free list instead of a 20 percent ad valorem duty as under the present tariff brought a protest from James E. Bennett of New York representing twenty-two printing press manufacturers that the present tariff should stand.

He challenged government statistics of the treasury and census about exportations of printing presses and said when he went to the New York custom house to verify the figure officials there told him they had to go by the manifest and they could not tell whether packages were "printing presses or featherbeds."

Chairman Underwood told the witness that the democrats were seeking a tariff for revenue and "not to protect profits" and that there was no disposition to maintain a tariff unless there was some revenue to the government. The witness contended that the business was being done on a small margin.

Republican senators this afternoon declined the proposition made to them by the democrats to appoint committees from both sides of the senate to consider President Taft's nominations to the democratic caucus said after receiving the decision that he probably would call a caucus of democratic senators for tomorrow to consider what steps should be taken.

The money trust committee of the house today expected Chairman Pajo to send a physician to William Rockefeller, returning from the Bermudas, as soon as he reached Miami. The physician will endeavor to ascertain whether the oil magnate is physically able to appear before the committee.

Is to Return.
Nassau, N. P., Jan. 10.—William Rockefeller has decided to leave here today on board the steamer Miami for Florida.

MEXICAN REBELS DISAPPEAR
AFTER A HARD BATTLE

Mexico City, Jan. 10.—The rebels this morning had disappeared from the hills about the town of Ayotzingo where yesterday's battle took place. They left during the night on the arrival of the federal reinforcements with field and machine guns. A column of two hundred and fifty men hastened to the scene on special trains from the capital last night, and these were soon able to dislodge the rebels. More than two hundred and fifty men were killed yesterday, counting federal, rebels and non-combatants according to a reliable estimate.

Furthermore, a force of two hundred infantry men from Mexico City, are said to have been cut to pieces and a similar fate is reported to have befallen a column of one hundred mounted police.

COMMISSION'S WORK
FOR SAFE CROSSINGS

Dangerous Grade Crossings Being Eliminated Through Efforts of Railroad Commission.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—Dangerous railroad crossings are being speedily eliminated in the state through the activities of the railroad commission according to a compilation announced today. Likewise there has been a decrease in the number of crossing accidents this year.

Last spring the commission began a campaign against dangerous crossings and the results have been indicative. During the past year formal orders have been issued by the commission for the installation of bells and illuminated signs at 35 crossings; flagmen have been ordered stationed at three crossings and gates at four crossings; high banks have been graded away at two crossings; either subways or overhead crossings have been ordered at four places; a crossing was ordered changed in one instance; the speed of trains reduced at four crossings and in two cases the train has to stop and send a flagman ahead. These cases are all outside of Milwaukee.

In the state metropolis at least twenty crossings have been protected by some method. In forty other cases throughout the state the railroads have volunteered to protect the crossings without any formal action by the commission. Of these latter twenty-four bells and illuminated night signs have been installed and in seven cases crossing obstructions have been removed.

The investigation of the commission indicate that the bell and illuminated sign are a sufficient protection to a crossing, where school children do not frequent. The gates used by the railroads are not entirely satisfactory as they are not an absolute bar to crossings, but rather a warning device.

With the report of the crossing campaign the commission announced a summary of the crossing accidents during the past year. There were 118 persons killed while trespassing upon railroad's right of way and 55 others were injured. At unprotected crossings throughout the state twenty-two were killed and sixty-four were injured. Of the total number killed at crossings three were killed by incoming cars. As a result of the campaign against dangerous crossings the legislature will be asked to pass a law at this session empowering the railroad commission to institute complaints against roads in crossing cases upon its own motion.

STATE WATER POWER

Retiring Nebraska Executive in Message to Legislature Declares Proposed Plan Impracticable.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 10.—Gov. Aldrich, Nebraska's retiring executive, in his message to the legislature last night declared that "state ownership of water power development was as impracticable as public ownership of railroads." During the recent administration the state contracted with private concerns for electric power for one of the state institutions at Beatrice. The governor declared that "regulation which insures good service at just and equitable rates is preferable to state ownership and anything more than this would be contrary to public policy and result to prevent the development of capital."

Several important water power projects are in the course of development in different parts of the state.

In accordance with the wishes of Gov. Moorehead, the new executive, the ball feature of last night's reception was abandoned.

AROUND THE UNIVERSITY.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—A five-mile dry zone around the university is proposed by P. A. Cool, state superintendent of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league. Every member of the legislature received a letter from him today urging him to vote for it.

Released on Bail Pending

On leaving Ellis Island the little Venezuelan took off his hat and saluted the statue of liberty from the deck of the ferry boat which brought him from Ellis Island, and again he lifted his hat to the American flag when he landed. "It is a pleasant thing this landing in New York," he explained, "it is wonderful!"

A curious crowd, which included several moving picture operators, trailed Castro to the federal building. This did not seem to worry him. He smiled and talked incessantly. He was faultlessly garbed and wore a luxurious fur overcoat.

HURLBUT CHAMPIONS
COUNTY COMMISSION

Winnebago County Assemblyman
Will Introduce Bill Providing
Substitute for County Board System.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—Counties in Wisconsin will have the option of adopting the commission plan if the bill to be presented by Assemblyman Wilbur E. Hurlbut of Winnebago county passes at this session of the legislature. Hurlbut intends to frame his bill along the line of the present law providing for the commission form for cities in Wisconsin. It will then remain with the voters of the counties to determine whether they desire the new plan or not. It is said that the counties of Dane and Douglas might attempt to adopt the plan should such a law be enacted.

Board System Cumbersome.
"The present county board system is cumbersome," declared Assemblyman Hurlbut. "There are too many members and too many committees. There is scarcely one problem that comes up in a county that one or two committees do not investigate. Some county boards have from forty to sixty members. This is too expensive a system."

"While I have not worked out the details of the bill I intend to introduce, I think it should be optional for counties to adopt and not compulsory. I am not sure as yet whether there should be three or five members, who will devote their time to looking after the affairs of the county. I believe that a better service will be rendered the people of the county."

Matter of Salaries.
Assemblyman Hurlbut has not determined upon the question of salaries to be paid to the commissioners. In some quarters there is a sentiment favoring a salary of from $1,000 to $2,000 a year depending upon the size of the counties. In other quarters Mr. Hurlbut declares that he finds sentiment in favor of paying the commissioners upon a per diem basis, the same as the state civil service commissioners.

CREW OF SCHOONER
SAVED FROM WRECK

Nine Men in Shattered Craft Off New foundland Coast Hauled to Safety by Fisher Folk.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, Jan. 10.—Captain Burke and the eight members of the crew of the schooner Evelyn, were hauled to safety up the steep cliffs at Anbols by the fisherfolk of the harbor, last night after the Evelyn had been dashed to pieces on the ledges off shore. The wreck of the Evelyn had left her crew helpless as her boats had been carried away. Hope of reaching shore was slight until a boat manned by fishermen reached the Evelyn's side.

When the transfer of the crew had been accomplished and the boat headed for shore the wind shifted, the small craft was carried out of its course and thrown on a narrow shelf of rock at the foot of the cliff a mile down the coast. Hemmed in by the perpendicular palisades on one side and by the rising tide on the other, the little band seemed without any chance of escape, but their fight for life had been watched from shore and the fisherfolk hurried to the cliffs and dropped a 300 foot rope to the men below, hauling them to safety, one by one.

MEMBER OF LEGISLATURE
SINCE CIVIL WAR TIMES

Carl Ziller of Sheboygan Recalls
Serving as Lawmaker When Madison Was a Village.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—Carl Ziller, the assemblyman for Sheboygan, holds the record of being the oldest member in the house in point of legislative experience, if not in point of age. Half a century ago he was a member of the legislature for two terms. He served in the sessions of 1863 and 1864, during Civil war times. The legislature met annually in those days.

"All the democrats were then called 'copperheads,'" said Mr. Ziller. "Now they are known as plain democrats. When I was a member of the legislature before, Madison was little more than a village. Every day the capital was infested by soldiers, who were training at Camp Randall before going to the front. Occasionally the members would visit the soldier boys, but the street from the capitol to the camp was so muddy that we were not able to walk there during the early springing. Governors Salomon and Lewis served while I was in the legislature. I was then a member of the committee on printing and state prison."

When Ziller was nineteen years old he established a newspaper, called "The National Democrat," at Sheboygan. This was in 1857. While he has retired from active work, he still retains his interest in the plant.

TURKEY THREATENING TO STOP PEACE TALK

CRISIS IN NEGOTIATIONS RE-PORTED AS APPROACHING
IN LONDON TODAY.

WOULD RECALL ENVOY

Meanwhile Roumania has Mobilized
Its Forces on the Bulgarian Frontier.

London, Jan. 10.—The threats of Turkey to recall her peace delegates from London to Constantinople and the menace of a Roumanian invasion of Bulgaria, tended today to give the impression that the Balkan situation has become more grave within the last twenty-four hours.

Much was expected from today's meeting of the ambassadors who planned to reach a decision concerning the collective attitude of Europe. The Russian ambassador, the leader of the Turkish peace movement, today reiterated the determination of the Turks not to abandon the fortress of Adrianople or the islands in the Aegean Sea.

"What kind of a conference is this where all the concession emanates from one side?" he asked. "Had this been known beforehand there would have been no use to go to the trouble of bringing together a peace conference in London," he added.

It is not likely the peace conference will resume its sittings before next week. Premier Venizelos, a Greek, intends to spend Saturday and Sunday visiting Oxford. Today he lunched with the chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster.

The Right Honorable Charles Hobhouse, one of the council of conversation, emphasized the Helene claims over the islands of the Aegean Sea, expressing the hope that "the country which under the late William E. Gladstone gave to Greece the Ionian Islands will refuse its assistance now that Gladstone's disciples are in power."

Paris, Jan. 10.—Roumania decided today to mobilize its army if she does not obtain within forty-eight hours satisfaction from Bulgaria in regard to the rectification of her frontier, according to a dispatch from Bucharest to the Temps. The meeting of the ambassadors of the European powers this afternoon to discuss the Balkan situation concluded without any definite results.

Loss to Greece.

Saloniki, Turkey, Jan. 10.—The losses of the Greek troops fighting against the Turks in the vicinity of Janina have been very heavy. To date they have lost 7,000 killed and wounded.

The sixth division of the Greek army left here today under orders to assist in the subjection of the Turkish fortress of Janina.

Colorless Note.

Constantinople, Jan. 10.—The European ambassador in the Ottoman capital today succeeded in drawing up a colorless note which will probably be presented on Monday to the Turkish government.

The document guardedly advises Turkey to yield on the question of Adrianople, but no suggestion is made of pressure being brought to bear by the powers to insure the acceptance of this advice.

Green Bay, Jan. 10.—Municipal Judge N. J. Monahan, frustrated what he believed was an attempt by the parents of Joe Bedient a boy of 13 years, to be relieved of supporting him by having him sent to the Waukesha Industrial school. The parents complained that the boy stole a bunch of keys hanging from the mail box in the post office yesterday day, but while the judge believed there was some reason to think he was guilty of the offense, he did not believe it advisable to send the boy to the reform school, if he could be disciplined at home. He ordered the boy to report to him every Saturday. The judge censured the parents for their attitude toward the boy.

Dr. Maud Williams of Milwaukee will give her fourth address on "Morals and Health" at a men's mass meeting at the city hall tonight. The meeting will start promptly at eight o'clock. Sunday afternoon at three o'clock she will speak to young ladies over sixteen years of age and at four o'clock she will give an address to mothers at the city hall.

In addressing the women of the city at the high school last night Dr. Williams spoke plainly on the sex relations, making a special point of the home influence, and urging co-operation between parents and teachers.

LEGISLATURE TO TAKE UP FEE SPLITTING QUESTION.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—The splitting of fees by physicians may be made a felony at this session of the legislature, Assemblyman A. E. Frederick, the "fighting parson" of Kendall, has this listed among his reforms for the betterment of humanity. He declares that the division of fees leads to needless surgery and destroys "the sacred trust relationship between patient and physician."

"The practice of splitting fees among physicians is most pernicious and is one which the ethics of the profession strongly condemn," said Rev. Frederick. "Many physicians in this state are strongly opposed to it and will welcome legislation declaring it wrong. To subject patients to operations and to gamble thereon by way of a division of fees tends to bring needless surgery, endanger life and destroy the sacred trust relationship between a patient and his physician.

"The measure I have in mind is intended to declare such an agreement between physicians a felony, and a strong penalty will be provided for. I feel confident that a majority of physicians in this state will welcome such legislation, and believe it will have a tendency to safeguard those who helplessly entrust themselves to the care of physicians."

Eddie Morgan, the Welsh bantam-weight who met Johnny Dundee recently, has sailed for home. Jimmy Johnston, his manager, announces, however, that Eddie will return in a few weeks.

George "Armless" Sutton, the famous billiardist whose arms have been amputated at the elbows, declares that arms are a detriment rather than an asset when it comes to playing billiards.

The man with arms must control the muscles of the hand and wrist," says Sutton. "I don't have to. The average billiardist contends that accuracy depends upon the perfection of the wrist movement. I believe that I have proven the wrist is a detriment. Other players have difficulty getting into position for certain shots. One position is just as easy for me as another. With the cue resting on my shoulder and manipulated by the stump of my arm, I can move to any part of the table or handle the ball in any position without extra strain."

President Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox plans on spending $15,000 on his spring training trip to California. He will cut down the number of exhibition games to be played and this will add to his expense. It will be the most expensive trip the White Sox have ever taken.

Here's the heavyweight situation: McCarty has beaten Morris, Barry, Kaufman, Flynn, and Palzer. Palzer has trimmed Bombadier Wells, Al Kaufman and Sailor White. Tom Kennedy and Tony Ross beat Palzer. Jess Willard beat McCarty. One-Round Davis and Soldier Kearns. Wells knocked out Kennedy. Dan Delly beat Kearns. Tom McMahon whipped Jim Savage and drew with Gunboat Smith.

Packey McFarland, Chicago stock-rards idol, is going to teach big Jess Willard, white hope, all he knows about the fistie game. "I think Jess will develop into the cleverest big man in the ring," says Packey. "His great height and fast and clever foot-work is what has caught my eye. When I start boxing with Willard I intend to work in private. One can't do much teaching when there is an audience, and what's more, I don't want the impression to get about that I am going to manage Willard."

Because First Baseman Baker Borton topped the American league batsmen after having played in a few games at the tag end of the 1912 season they're touting him as Hal Chase's most dangerous rival for the title of the "peer of all first sackers." They said something like that about a fellow named Jackson who joined the Boston Nationals late in the season of 1911 and hit .400. He was regarded as a sensation. But he dropped out of sight almost in 1912. Possibly Borton won't shine so much in 1913. It occasionally happens that way.

PRICES AND PARCELS POST.

The Madison Journal, for many years a strong conservative paper, is now controlled by a theorist trained in the school of Collier's, the magazine which poses as "the great national weekly," and attempts to run the universe. The ambition of the Journal is more prescribed, but equally pronounced. Its latest venture is an effort to induce the farmers to take advantage of the parcels post, by shipping farm products direct to Madison consumers.

The "scheme" is so visionary and theoretical that it was no tax on the brain, which evolved it. A retired merchant in Madison takes the paper to task, and points out a few holes in the skimmer in the following letter to the "Madison Democrat." The Gazette reproduces it for the enlightenment of Rock county farmers.

"I see that a local paper very generously offers to insert ads of farmers who wish to sell direct to consumers in Madison, via the parcels post. I suppose it imagines that the consumer thereby would be enabled to get butter, eggs, poultry and vegetables cheaper than before, and the farmer receive a better price than he could obtain from the much maligned middleman, merchant and butcher. I am sorry to say that its efforts in this direction will prove entirely futile, enthusiastic as the paper seems to be on the subject. For instance, on all vegetables the postal charge would be more than the vegetables are worth even at retail. On eggs, the postal charge would be, even in five dozen lots, seven cents per dozen in the fifty mile zone. Any retailer would be glad to sell them at three cents per dozen advance over case prices, which he could land at his store for one cent per dozen, even if bought over 100 miles away. The same is true of butter, poultry and meats of all kinds. The grocers and butchers of Madison are selling all farm products to my certain knowledge, at less profit than the difference between postal rates and freight rates and even express rates would be. A certain creamery about twelve miles from Madison delivers at any one a pound of butter at just three cents above what it could get at home for a thousand pounds or more, and our merchants do likewise.

"Some people kick about the prices our merchants charge for vegetables. Do they ever consider the losses the merchant has to stand or the cost of delivery? When neighboring farmers bring in their vegetables to sell from house to house I notice that their prices are generally as high as the grocer's. Why? Because they sell in a retail way, and time is money. If they could sell their whole load to one grocer even at a discount of 33 1/3 per cent it would be money in their pocket in the end."

THE ERRATIC COLONEL.

In discussing the Idaho supreme court decision, which barred the progressive party from a place on the ballot, Colonel Roosevelt expressed the following sentiment:

"It was an outrageous decision. The court was doing all that it could to prevent the establishment in Idaho of the only party that stands for the genuine right of the people to rule themselves, and against the people of Idaho but against the people of the United States. The people of the United States should with one voice try to prevent the consummation of the outrage."

"The colonel has so long been a law unto himself, that any interference to his wishes, is regarded as an outrage. The Springfield (Mass.) Republican, in commenting says:

"The country was not wrought up in the least over the decision and Mr. Roosevelt's original appeal to the American people to prevent the consummation of the outrage left the nation cold. For the American people had observed that precisely the same sort of a raw deal had been the portion of the republican party in California through a decision of the state supreme court. No Taft electors were on the California ballot, but no one ever heard a single shriek of protest from Mr. Roosevelt because of the California court's decision."

"But the Idaho editors—the martyrs whose incarceration draws a throb of sympathy from every embattled journalist's breast—those poor editors are in jail, while Mr. Roosevelt storms at the court again from Oyster-Bay. What puzzles one is that he did not go to Idaho himself, knowing as he did that the editors were up against, and say to that august tribunal: 'Behold! I am the guilty man. I Theodore Roosevelt, am responsible for the reflections which your honors regard as contempt of court. If anyone is to be punished, punish me!'"

That's about all there is to it. The three editors, now in jail, are paying the penalty for giving publicity to Colonel Roosevelt's criticism of the supreme court.

CONDITIONS ON THE COAST.

In 1904 San Francisco had, in round figures, 4,500 factories of various kinds, employing nearly 45,000 workers, with a production for the year valued at the shop door of over $238,000,000.

"But through the enforcement of the 'closed shop' idea, especially in the building trades, in the census year 1910 San Francisco had only 1,398 factories, employing about 14,000 workers, the value of whose production was only $78,981,879.

"Thus two-thirds of the industrial strength of San Francisco disappeared in six years. There was work and wages in 1910 for only one-third of the workers employed in 1904.

"During the same period in Los Angeles, where freedom to hire and be hired was maintained, despite the dynamite arguments of agitators for a 'closed shop' millennium, industrial establishments and the number of their workers trebled."

A writer for the New York Times thus summarizes industrial conditions on the coast where organized labor has been in arbitrary control for the past decade. The closed shop is always a disturbing element, and San Francisco has paid dearly for submitting to the dictation of organized labor.

The governor's message is an exhaustive document, devoted principally to defending the freak laws which burden the people of the state, and recommending more of the same class. He suggests that his State Board of Control is overworked, and that the men should spend their time at the capitol, and authorize deputies to perform the outside work. Anything to make a place on the payroll for a lot of patriots who are waiting to be rewarded. The population of the state is increasing slowly, but expenses have exceeded the speed limit, and are still going some. The income tax is regarded as a blessing in disguise, which the people will enjoy when they discover its beauties.

Public officials are sometimes impeached for dishonesty, but it has been left to Janesville to start the first recall proceedings against city officials for enforcing the law. As City Attorney Dougherty said, the other night, "The proposition is too ridiculous to command serious attention." And yet the movement will bear watching. If the question finally comes to a vote, every man in the city who believes in the enforcement of law must be on hand to do his duty. The opposition will be out to a man, and the danger lies with the indifferent voter. The welfare of the city is at stake, and every man should realize its importance.

The story is going the rounds of the press, of a Kansas farmer who went into a store to buy an axe. The price was two dollars, at which he rebelled, claiming that he could buy it of a mail order house in Chicago for $1.50. The merchant said, "All right, I'll meet the price." So the farmer handed him the money. Then the merchant said, "Now give me seven cents more for a money order and postage, and forty-five cents for express. After the money was paid the axe was put back on the shelf, and the dealer said: 'Come in and get it the last of next week.' The farmer saw the force of the argument and now patronizes the home market."

COMMITTEE FAVORS COUNTY SANITORIUM

Special Committee of Supervisors Will Recommend New Institution to Treat Tubercular Patients.

Members of the special committee of the county board, who have been investigating the matter of a county tuberculosis sanatorium, will make a favorable report to the county board at the session next week, according to Chairman L. E. Gettie of Edgerton, today.

The committee completed their work in a meeting at the county clerk's office this afternoon. All five members are practically unanimous for the recommendation although it was stated that one member was somewhat uncertain in regard to it. This member is of the opinion that the county should wait until the experience of other counties could be taken as a criterion.

The committee will submit to the board estimates on the cost of building and maintenance of the proposed sanatorium, and will also report the result of their visits to three sanatoriums which are now established by counties in this state. Dr. C. M. Smith of Evansville and P. M. Roach of Harmony inspected the hospital at Manitowish, Simon Smith of Beloit and S. B. Heddles of Janesville went over the ground at Racine, while Mr. Gettie visited the Milwaukee hospitals for treatment of tuberculosis, both city and county.

While the committee's report will recommend a sanatorium for the county and will urge it practically unanimously, there is a probability that there will be a fight on the floor to secure its adoption. The supervisors at the November meeting voted 28 to 11 favoring a sanatorium, the vote being merely an expression of sentiment. The seven members of the opposition, it is understood, will form a nucleus for a fight against the proposition which will be watched with interest.

Taking Governor McGovern's message to the legislature now in session as a basis, Prin. H. C. Buell began a series of talks to the high school students this morning on the proposed legislation for Wisconsin. Among some of the measures which he briefly outlined today and which he will treat more fully later on were, the automobile tax, high improvement matters, women suffrage amendment, proposed new state institutions, including new school for the feeble minded.

Mr. Buell will also explain the method of organizing the two houses of the legislature and the manner of passing bills.

SAUSAGE SENT TO COUNTRY PATRON OF PARCELS POST

Resident of R. F. D. Route No. 3 Received Three Pound Package from Local Butcher.

One of the interesting developments at the postoffice in this city, according to Postmaster Valentine today, was the use of the system for delivering a patron of the rural route, No. 3 a package containing three pounds of sausage. The meat was ordered from the shop of George W. Yahn and delivered at the postoffice in three for the carrier to take it out on his route Wednesday morning.

Other merchants are beginning to utilize the parcels post for the purpose of sending packages to country customers, and the business at the local postoffice has greatly increased. According to word received by Postmaster C. L. Valentine from the postoffice department at Washington today, the operation of the parcels post law does not in any way affect the foreign registered mail.

Announcing the Engagement. "Miss Upperton, are you engaged to be married to Count Nocash?" "There is absolutely no truth in the rumor, Marie, show the gentlemen the ring and give him a photograph."

OBITUARY.

Harvey Selden. Harvey Selden, an old resident of Walworth county, passed away at his home in L'Anse, Michigan, on January 7, after having been ill and in feeble health for the last three years. Mr. Selden was born in Rome, New York, in 1835. When a young man he was engaged in railroad work, being superintendent of construction of the line between Eagle and Elkhorn. In 1872 he moved to L'Anse, Michigan where he has since made his home. For the last twenty five years he has been in charge in Houghton and Baraga counties. Mr. Selden was a Mason and at one time was a member of the East Troy Lodge. Thirty-seven years ago he was married to Miss Lizzie Sholtz, formerly of Janesville who with four sons survive him. He will be remembered by the oldest residents of Janesville and East Troy.

Rich, Rare Oriental Rug Art:

Oriental Rugs take their value from their beauty—
—from the skill and ideas of the weavers—not from the amount of time and labor spent upon them. If time and labor were to many of the most ordinary specimens far out of

We've mastered it—for

We know what to buy

We take advantage of

GOLF ENTHUSIASTS MEET IN NEW YORK

Go to Attend Meeting of National Golf Association to be Held Tomorrow Night.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Jan. 10.—Golfers are arriving from all directions to attend the annual meeting of the United States association to be held tomorrow night at the Hotel Astor. The ticket of officers for the ensuing year as presented by the nominating committee is expected to go through without opposition according to the usual custom. Several changes have been made since the ticket was first announced. Robert C. Watson who has served four terms as secretary of the association, is slated to succeed Silas H. Strawn of the Glenview club, Chicago, who has been president two years. Milton Dargan of Atlanta, now second vice president, is to take the place of Joseph S. Clark of Philadelphia in the first vice presidency, while Frank L. Woodward of Denver is to become second vice president. John Reid, Jr. of St. Andrew's Golf club, is to succeed Mr. Watson as secretary, and Percy R. Pyne of the Garden City Golf club, is to become treasurer. The most important business of the meeting will be the selection of the courses for the championship tournaments this year. Half a dozen of the leading golf clubs of the East are bidding for the national amateur championship, which is the event most sought. The tournament was held last year in the West.

INJURED AT MILTON WHEN STRUCK BY TRAIN THURSDAY.

John McGinley of This City Received Scalp Wound and Bruises in Accident.

John McGinley of this city received a scalp wound on the top of his head and was bruised about the right side and shoulder yesterday morning, when he was struck by a St. Paul train at Milton, and is today recovering from his injuries at the Mercy hospital in this city. Mr. McGinley was working for the St. Paul railroad near the station yesterday, and as he had his cap pulled down over his ears, did not hear the train approaching. He was brought to this city about noon yesterday and taken to the hospital. Several stitches were taken in the wound on his head. He was quite badly shaken up by the accident, but his injuries are not considered serious and his condition today is reported as much improved.

CLINTON

Clinton, Jan. 10.—Mrs. O. H. Churchill of North Dakota is visiting her mother, Mrs. I. W. Wheeler, here. Revard and Earl Duxstad are both quite sick.

Charles Leroy Conley, who is attending the university, took the examination for night employment at the state capitol, before the civil service commission, and stood fourth. But when he went to claim a position he found he must be on duty all night instead of just during the evening, as he supposed. He did not accept a position.

Mrs. Henry Cheesman returned yesterday afternoon from Madison where she has been spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Francis Hughes, and family.

Mrs. J. H. Greene is on the sick list. E. F. Vanderlyn has purchased the vacant lot on Durand street between the M. M. Murray house and the A. Woodard house and will erect a modern residence thereon in the spring.

The Woman's Missionary society will meet with Mrs. Alice Inman at noon today. Each lady brought a box lunch. A very interesting program was taken up at one o'clock.

James Winegar has given an option on his excellent farm north of town to parties from away. Mr. and Mrs. Winegar's many friends hope, in case he does sell, that they will not leave Clinton.

A good many of the citizens of Clinton are assessed an income tax, but none for a very large amount, the total amount being only $1,240.

The next number on the Citizens' Lyceum course will be held Jan. 28th.

TODAY'S EDGERTON NEWS

EDGERTON

Edgerton, Jan. 10.—The sale of Christmas seals in Edgerton was not so large as it was last year. The sale only amounted to $120 this year. Miss Winifred Hubble, who has been ill for the past few weeks, is reported as being better at present.

The Edgerton basketball five will play the Monroe five in the local high school gym. A good game is expected as both teams are evenly matched. The Monroe team has one of the strongest fives in the state but the Edgerton boys think that they are an even match for them.

Prof. Damour will hold his dancing school in Academy hall Saturday evening, Jan. 11. Mr. Damour teaches all the new dances and also instructs beginners. From eight to nine he gives instructions and from nine to twelve dancing. Music is furnished by piano and trap drums. So far this dancing school has proved a success.

The Roy's Literary Society of the high school held their meeting in the high school building last evening.

The Edgerton fire department will hold their annual ball in Academy hall on the evening of January 27th. Music will be furnished by Hatch's seven piece orchestra of Janesville. Prof. Allington of Freeport, Ill., will assist them on xylophone.

society. The debate was concerning the wisdom of making new year's resolutions. Elta Knuth and Marie Dobson of the affirmative won over Vesta Bradley and Mary Butters of the negative. The first installment of a serial story was read by Isabel McGregor. The point of ending was exciting and caused much watchful interest among the members. The second installment will be given next week.

FIREMAN FIGHTS FIRE ALONE IN OWN HOME

Allen J. Pierce Arrives Home Just in Time to Put Out Blaze Started By Little Son.

Allen J. Pierce, hoseman at the east side fire station arrived at his home, 1720 Highland avenue, at about 10:45 o'clock this morning just in time to fight and extinguish a fire in a bed-room and clothes closet accidentally started by his little five year old son. It seems the little boy went into the closet for some article and lit a match. In his attempt to blow out the flame he blew the flame against an umbrella which was ignited, blazed up and communicated the fire to other clothing. In consequence his eyebrows and the fur cap that he wore were singed and his face somewhat burned when he rushed into the kitchen to tell his mother that everything in the closet was on fire.

Mrs. Pierce announced to her husband before he reached the top of the stairs that there was a fire in the house and he at once stepped into the room which by this time was filled with smoke. His little son fortunately had closed the door, preventing draft from reaching the fire. Mr. Pierce was able to extinguish the blaze in the closet with a few pails of water and then put out the fire in the bed clothes which appeared to have been started by the boy throwing the burning umbrella underneath it. Considerable clothing belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Pierce was destroyed, as well as bedclothes. The loss will probably not be less than seventy-five dollars and is probably covered by insurance. No alarm was sent to the fire department.

DINNER STORIES.

Bill and Jack were playing cards one evening. "Look here, matey," said Bill, "this 'ere game is too slow. Let's try something more exciting. I'll bet you two bob that I cut the ace of diamonds first time." "Done!" said Jack, his companion. Bill drew a sharp knife and cut the pack fair in half. "There," he cried. "And over the money, sonny. The ace of diamonds is cut first go." Jack grinned. "I reckon it's you what'll do the 'anding over," he said. "I put the ace in my pocket while you was a borrowing the knife."

A wise cavalry officer keeps a sharp eye upon the horses of his command, as the success of the next engagement may depend upon their good condition. A sergeant was out of patience with an awkward recruit. "Never approach the horses from behind without speaking!" he exclaimed. "If you do they'll kick you in that thick head of yours, and the end of it will be that we shall have nothing but lame horses in the squadron."

Elliott Woods, superintendent of the Capitol, recently told a story about a new Southern member of the House whose frugality he is commending to his Congressional friends. The new member arrived in town and hunted Superintendent Woods up immediately. "I reckon I'd like to look at my quarters," said he to the superintendent. He was taken to the House office building and shown to one of the substantially furnished office rooms. "This is fine," said the new member, "but where are my other rooms?" "Oh, you can't have another room for several years—not until you have become chairman of a committee," replied Woods. "My God!" exclaimed the Southerner, "how do you expect me to sleep, cook, eat and work in the same room?"

MARKETING SYSTEMS TREATED IN REPORT

Secretary of Agriculture Discussed Important Points in Selling of Farm Products in an Exhaustive Manner.

Systems of marketing farm products and the demand for them at trade centers are the subjects of a special report to Congress by the Secretary of Agriculture, recently published. The report was made by special direction of Congress in order that information might be at hand concerning the establishment of a division of markets in the Department of Agriculture. The secretary specifies various items of service that could be performed by such an office, with recommendations that they be adopted, if it is created. The report covers 251 pages and is crowded with information with regard to the subjects treated.

By Producers to Consumers.
The report treats of the movement of farm products from the farm to consumer through a great variety of channels. The simplest distribution is the direct one of delivery by farmer to consumer, and next after this is the delivery by individual farmers or associations of farmers to individual consumers or associations of consumers. In these direct forms of distribution, the middleman is eliminated, although of course intermediate services are performed either by producers or by consumers or by both parties.

Intervention of Middlemen.
Among the varieties of middlemen concerned in the marketing of farm products honestly and honorably will go from farm to farm gathering eggs, butter, poultry, calves, and other commodities, which they sell to shippers, jobbers, or retail dealers. The country merchant is often the first receiver of such products as eggs, farm-made butter, poultry, wool, hides, cotton, and sometimes grain and hay. In regions where grain is the staple product, the tendency has been to displace the country merchant by the grain buyer and the local elevator man.

Farmers commonly sell through commission merchants and to some extent directly to wholesale dealers and also to retail dealers. The farmer who employs a trustworthy commission merchant will handle his products honestly and honorably will get the current prices for them with in the range of the commission merchant's business, but the farmer often finds himself in the hands of a commission merchant who falsely reports that the products were received in damaged conditions or that they were of a grade lower than they were in fact or he reports receiving prices lower than those actually received by him for the products. Worse than this, it is by no means rare that the commission merchant has sold the products and failed to return the net proceeds.

Samples of transactions in which only one middleman intervenes be-between producer and consumer include the commission man at a large market who receives consignments of live stock from farmers and sells to packers; the factor to whom the planter consigns his rice or cotton and from whom purchases are made by millers; the warehouseman who manages the sale of a Virginia planter's tobacco. The intervention of two men between producer and consumer is a common occurrence. Fruits and vegetables are often marketed through the aid of two middlemen, the city commission dealer and a retail merchant.

More Than Two Intermediaries.
A series of three middlemen may include first the local buyer of the shipper; second, the commission dealer; the wholesale merchant; and third, the retail merchant. In the sale of fruit by auction, which is common in large cities east of the Mississippi river, the auctioneer is an additional middleman. He may sell for a commission dealer, to whom the commission dealer may have been made by a country buyer; and the purchaser at such an auction may be a jobber, who in turn sells to a retail merchant. Five middlemen are thus concerned in such a transaction.

Onions raised in Kentucky are sometimes bought by a local merchant and shipped to Louisville; here they may be put into sacks and consigned to a New York wholesaler or a commission man who in turn sells to a New York retailer. Eggs and poultry frequently pass through the hands of at least four middlemen.

The marketing of clover seed is an example of a transfer from one farmer to another through a number of middlemen. The first middleman may be an Indiana jobber, who consigns to a commission dealer in Toledo, Ohio; here the seed may be purchased by a merchant and shipped to a wholesale dealer in a distant city. The last middleman in this course of distribution is a country storekeeper or a city dealer in agricultural supplies.

Market Places and Warehouses.
Public market places are established in a number of cities and towns, and in these places consumers may buy such articles as fruit, vegetables, dairy products, poultry and eggs direct from farmers as well as from dealers.

Another institution which aids the producer to dispose of his crop is the public warehouse. Illustrations of this are afforded in the marketing of tobacco in Virginia and North Carolina, wool from the northern Rocky Mountain States, and to some extent rice in Louisiana and Texas. The growers or their representatives, with their produce, meet the buyers at these warehouses.

While farm products are in transit by rail, there are certain points at which the consigner may designate a final destination. The purpose of this practice is to enable the consigner to find the best market for his goods. This is the plan followed in shipping fruits and vegetables by rail from California to the East and from Southern States to the North.

Associative Marketing.
The Secretary of Agriculture has been asked to say concerning associative marketing by farmers, and the economic advantages are stated in detail. "A survey of the systems of marketing farm products clearly discovers what the farmers can best do to their advantage. They must associate themselves together for the purpose of assembling their individual contributions of products, of shipping in carload lots, of obtaining market news at places to which it is practical to send their products, to sell in a considerable number of markets, if not in many markets, and to secure the various economic gains of associative selling."

To carry out this suggestion, it is recommended that if Congress establishes a division of markets, a corps of traveling field agents be maintained to assist farmers to form associations for marketing their products.

Estimates of Fruit and Vegetable Supply.
It is also recommended that estimates of the prospective supply of fruits and vegetables, and perhaps of other products not now represented in the quantitative estimates of the Department's crop reporting service, be made a short time before harvest, so that the farmers may "have in mind a fairly definite idea of the volume of the crop throughout the country in order that he may occupy a place in the market that is fair to himself or, as the case may be, a place in the market that is fair to the consumer."

General market news service is not recommended. If such service were derived from telegraphic reports, the expense would be enormous. One farmer's marketing association spends $25,000 a year in telegraphic charges, and a fruit growers' organization spends $75,000 for this service.

Field Agents and Correspondents.
It is proposed that a corps of traveling field agents and a large corps of local agents and correspondents be established for the following items of service: To help producers organize for associative marketing; to examine and remove local difficulties in the way of such marketing; to help producers to find markets; to report the current descriptive condition of crops; in addition to the work already done by the Department crop reporting service; to estimate the probable production of crops a short time before harvest; to report the beginning and ending of the shipping season; to report the crop movement from producing points through "gateways" to principal markets.

Subjects For Investigation.
Among the subjects whose investigation is suggested are the storage of farm products either on the farm or elsewhere pending their sale; the business of commission dealers; the various costs of marketing, properly itemized, and compared with prices of products at the farm and with consumers' prices; a description of principal markets and of chief producing regions; and some problems of transportation.

Some information with regard to foreign markets, it is advised, might be made useful to producers. It is proposed also to keep an elaborate record of prices of farm products in which prices at the farm shall be paralleled by wholesale and retail prices. Among the other recommendations are the maintenance of a list of marketing associations and the collection of statistics concerning the business done by them; the investigations of systems of marketing farm products in other countries, with special attention to those features which it may be assumed might be adopted beneficially in this country.

Proposal to Aid Consumers.
The Secretary of Agriculture closes his recommendations by making one concerning the participation of consumers in the solution of marketing problems. "A cheapening of farmers' costs of marketing will naturally result in gain to the producer rather than to the consumer. If the consumer is to gain by changes in the costs of distribution, it seems probable that he must do so through cheapening or eliminating costs at his end of the chain of distribution. The consumers can cheapen the costs of farm products by co-operative buying and by reducing the expenses of retail and other local distribution. The consumer's aspect of the problems of the distribution of farm products is a conspicuous one at the present time, and problems in distribution that are concerning the consumer rather than the producer may well be included within the service of a division of markets."

EXTINGUISH HOT BLAZE.
BENEATH BACK STAIRWAY.

Fire Department Called to 315 Dodge Street at Eight O'clock This Morning—Damage Slight.

Fire originating from an unknown cause broke out underneath a back stairway at 315 Dodge street this morning and the fire department was called by a silent alarm. The blaze had obtained good headway when the department arrived but was put out in a few minutes by the use of chemicals. As the house is a frame structure and the rear addition where the fire broke out not plastered, prompt work was all that saved it from destruction. A number of window screens stored beneath the stairs were so badly charred as to require replacement. The damage is estimated from fifty to a hundred dollars. The house is occupied by Sidney Northrup and Herbert Wooster.

SISEWALK KETCHES.

WHY WHO'S WHO.

(By Howard L. Rans.)

THE pastime of discovering the North Pole for Chautauqua purposes is one of the most ennobling and remunerative occupations of mankind. Somebody is always discovering the pole and then coming home to tell where they found it at $250 per evening.

It has been popularly supposed that the pole was a stationary object something like the pole of our great cities, but this seems to be a mistake. Every year or two some explorer discovers the pole in a new spot and brings back a set of moving pictures showing how it looked when he ran into it. The Chautauqua platform is littered up with proofs of discovery, consisting of splinters from the pole itself and photographs of the explorer reclining at its base, wrapped in the American flag and the Arctic chillblain.

The pole has been discovered so often in different parts of the frigid zone that people have become suspicious and refuse to accept any kiosk pictures, unless certified to by a justice of the peace. The only man who has been able to meet these strict requirements is Commander Robert E. Peary, who found the pole in approximately the same longitude where it was originally put up.

When Commander Peary returned home to receive some medals and pick off a few lecture engagements, he was greatly chagrined to find that old Doc Cook was being featured on the front page with everything but the proofs. The Doc had left the proofs lying on the piano at his summer home in Amsterdam, where they can be seen by anybody who happens to be in that vicinity. Peary said he didn't find the Doc's initials carved on the pole, and knew he hadn't been there. Upon hearing this, the newspapers began to hedge and relegated the Doc to the eighth page, next to the insurance column.

It is now admitted that Commander Peary is the only man who found the North Pole without the aid of the long bow and a lively imagination. As luck would have it, he is an American, and America discovers everything that is worth while, except relief from the perennial and night-blooming office seeker.

To Brighten Brass Bed.
Gum shellac dissolved in alcohol makes a thin varnish, which should be applied with a small brush. Ten cents' worth of shellac is enough. Add also enough alcohol to make it thin. This will lacquer a brass bed, and the work can be done in less than an hour.

Different From Anything You're Reading!

That's THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN, and Here's the Proof in This Week's Issue

Knowing How About Hogs

If a man can raise hogs that are good enough to win the highest honors at the greatest livestock show in the world, he must know something about what is good for a hog. That's what we thought when we asked H. T. Morgan to write us an article on what to put into a hog to get the most out of him. More than once Mr. Morgan has brought fat hogs to the International Livestock Exposition that won highest honors on foot and on the block. A hog that wins in the carcass contest has been fed rightly. Morgan knows how. Read his article.

A Lot of Little Worlds

Down in Maryland Nature has made a ragged job of the shore line. Every few miles there is a long inlet or estuary and boats run up and into the country to get the farmer's produce. Farmers fifteen miles apart have different boat lines, and for that reason they don't get together as often as most farmers. Going across a river presents more difficulties than crossing the road—the hen stays on the other side, too. J. Russell Smith went down there and found that each little peninsula was a little world by itself, growing its own peculiar crops. He has written several articles about these rich little worlds that are surrounded by oyster beds. This is the first of the series.

My Little Farm

This is a story written by a man who is "his own boss" and who doesn't believe in cutting down a poor man and settling in Canada. His first job was with a truck gardener, and he tells how he improved on his employer's methods and finally came to own a farm of his own. It is a simple story of a man who worked with his shirt and his mind open.

Eating Our Heads Off

That is what some of us are doing. Indigestion is the great American disease. It's a sneak. You go on peacefully eating until it creeps on you and makes you think something else is the matter with you. Heart disease, liver complaints, headaches, are usually only fancy disguises of indigestion. The human body is like a gasoline engine which, when loaded up on poor gasoline, gradually clogs up, slows down and stops. The farmer has the finest food available, but does he use it rightly? Dr. Roger J. Perkins tells of the evils of Pie and Fry.

The Cereal of The South

We have a growing rice industry. This food crop, the mainstay of several nations, can be grown to perfection on many abandoned lands in the Southern States. It is immensely profitable where well managed. It does not unduly exhaust the soil. It is a crop worth studying. Read about it in the article, "Where Rice is King," by F. G. Moorhead.

A Corncob Conserve

"The reason men succeed who mind their own business is because they have no idle conversation." This is the motto that hangs in the living-room of a Kansas farmer. He has minded his own business so well that he now owns a lot of rich prairie land and the biggest battery of silos in the country. He is one of those fellows who puts the oil where the squeak is. He says a mowing-machine ought to last fifteen years. His did. He doesn't waste his cornbobs, either. Charles Dillon has written a mighty interesting article on this man and his farm. You'll like it.

Cashing-In Farm Credit

The vital fact in all this rural credit agitation frequently overlooked is: What has the farmer to offer for the money he wants to borrow? How will he pay it back, even if the loan is for a long term of years? What secures the investment? What is the greatest asset of a farm? Why must the mortgage be improved before cash will be forthcoming? These and a dozen other pertinent questions are answered by Mr. B. F. Harris, the Illinois farmer-banker. He knows the farmer's side because he runs a farm of his own; and he knows the banker's side because that is his chief business. What he says is fundamental and mighty important.

Sixteen Years of Plenty

Secretary James Wilson has directed the United States Department of Agriculture through a period of the greatest development of American farming. His report, just issued, is a historic document, tracing the expansion of agriculture through these years of increasing farm production. Read the summary. It is inspiring and suggestive, and a wealth of value of the future of farming.

A Paragraph That Men Can Skip

During the coming year we shall devote more space to the distaff side of the household. And we shall do this, not by taking away anything from the man's department, but by increasing the size of the weekly. Space does not permit us to tell here all our plans for the country woman; but these plans include the woman's sphere from cellar to garret and from hedge-row to hedge-row; and her clothes from head to foot. In this number we begin a fashion department for women, which will appear fortnightly—often if there is a large demand for it. Nor shall we forget the woman's church and social life, her children and the schools.

EVERYMAN'S GARDEN Are you willing to pay a few cents a week for a year's instruction, telling you every week, almost in words of one syllable, what to do with that little garden of yours? You are too wrapped up in business to take time enough to learn gardening—but you insist on pottering around your garden and blaming the seedman for your failures. It's our job to prevent the failures. And we propose to do it each week of the coming year in a simple, practical way.

Too Many People Take Headache Powders When a Liver Tonic Is Needed.

Try Olive Tablets—the Substitute for Calomel.

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver or bowels, will never have headache.

There is no necessity, when you take Olive Tablets, of following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts or castor oil, as you should after taking calomel.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel or any other metallic drugs; they are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, sugar-coated, easy to take, and never gripe or cause weakness.

Thousands of people take one every night at bedtime just to prevent disorder of the liver, constipation, bad breath, pimples, headache, etc.

Dr. Edwards, calomel's old enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with liver and bowel troubles.

MOLLY McDONALD A TALE OF THE FRONTIER

By RANDALL PARRISH Author of "Keith of the Border," "My Lady of Doubt," "My Lady of the South," etc., etc. Illustrations by J. L. Barnes

COPYRIGHT 1912 BY A. C. MCCLURG & CO.

Calve was easily obtained, and the Sergeant, rejoicing in a freshly issued uniform, dressed with all the care possible, his interest reviving at this new point of view. It was not far down the bluff road to the squalid little village which had naturally developed in close proximity to the fort—near enough for protection, yet far enough removed to be lawless—a rough frontier outpost town, of shacks and tents, most of these dispensing vile liquors. Among these, more enterprising spirits—hopeful of future development—had erected larger buildings, usually barn-like, with false fronts facing the single main street, filled with miscellaneous stocks of goods or used for purposes not so legitimate. One of these housed the "Poodle Dog" saloon, with gambling rooms above, while a few doors below was a great dance hall, easily converted into a theater if occasion arose—a grotesque, one-storied monstrosity. Below these was the stage office, built against the three-storied wooden hotel, which boasted of a wide porch on two sides, and was a picture of ugliness.

By daylight all was squalor and dirt, dingy tents flapping in the ceaseless wind, unpainted shacks, wooden houses with boards warping under the hot sun, the single street deep in yellow dust, the surrounding prairie littered with tin cans, and all manner of debris. But with the coming of night much of this roughness departed. Soldiers from the garrison on pass, idle plainsmen, bull-whackers, adventurers of all kinds stranded here because of Indian activity, stray cowboys from the nearby valleys, thronged the numerous dives, seeking excitement. Women, gaudy of dress, shrill of voice, flitted from door to door through the jostling crowds. Lamps blazed over the motley assembly, loud-voiced barkers yelled, and a band added its discords to the din. The "Poodle Dog" glared in light, resounded with noise; lamps gleamed from the hotel windows, and the huge dance hall stood wide open. Out from the shacks and tents crept the day's sleepers for a night of revelry; along the trails rode others eager for excitement; it was the harvest-time of those birds of prey in saloon and gambling hall.

Hamlin saw all this, but gave the surroundings little thought. He was of the West, of the frontier, and beheld nothing unique in the scene. Moreover, the purpose for which he was there overshadowed all else, left him indifferent to the noise, the jostling, drunken crowd. Some he met who knew him and called his name, but he passed them in a word, and pressed his way forward. At the hotel he mounted the steps and entered. The office was in one corner of the bar-room. The proprietor himself, a bald-headed Irishman, sat with feet cocked up on the counter, smoking, and barely glancing up as the Sergeant asked for Mrs. Dupont.

"Who are yer?" he asked.

"My name is Hamlin; I am here on the lady's invitation."

"Sure; thet's her name all right, me boy. Yer ter go out on the east porch there, an' wait a bit while I send her word yer here. O'im imaginin' she hed sum doubts about yer comin', the way she spoke."

"How do I get there?"

"Through the winder of the parlor over thar—sure, it's a noice quiet spot for a late-a-ate." He got up, and peered through his glasses across the room. "Here, Moike; damn thet slapy head. Will one o' yer gents wake the lad—that's it. Now come here, Moike. You run over to the Palace an' tell Mrs. Dupont the feller is here waitin'."

Hold on now, not so fast; wait till O'im done tellin' yer. Say that to her alone—do yer mind thet, ye sap-head; nobody else is to hear what yer say; yer ther till yer git a chance ter whisper it to her. Now skip."

Hamlin hesitated, watching the boy disappear.

"At the Palace—the dance hall across the street?" he asked incredulously.

"Sure," he replied, "that's the place."

"I have kept you waiting, but you must forgive that, as I came as soon as I could manufacture an excuse. Won't you even shake hands with me?"

"Is it necessary?" he asked, almost wearily. "You have come to me for some purpose surely, but it can hardly be friendship."

"Why should you say that?" reproachfully. "I have deserted a rather brilliant party to meet you here."

"That, perhaps, is why I say it, Mrs. Dupont. If my memory serves, you would not be inclined to leave such friends as you have yonder to rendezvous with a common soldier, unless you had some special object in view. If you will inform me what it is, we can very quickly terminate the interview."

She laughed, a little touch of nervousness in the voice, but drew her skirts aside, and sat down on the bench.

"Do you think you can deceive me by such play-acting?" she asked eagerly. "You are no man of wood. Tell me, is there nothing you care to ask me, after—after all these years?"

Hamlin lifted his eyes and looked at her, stirred into sudden interest by the almost caressing sound of the soft voice.

"Yes," he said slowly, "there are some things I should like to know, if I thought you would answer frankly."

"Try me and see."

"Then why are you Mrs. Dupont, instead of Mrs. Le Fevre?"

"Then my guess is true, and you are not so devoid of curiosity," she laughed. "My answer? Why, it is simplicity itself—because I was never Mrs. Le Fevre, but am rightfully Mrs. Dupont."

"Do you mean you were never married to Le Fevre?"

"What else could I mean?"

"Then he lied."

She shrugged her white shoulders.

"That would not surprise me in the least. 'Twas a characteristic of the man you had ample reason to know. How came you to believe so easily?"

"Believe? What else could I believe? Everything served to substantiate his boast. I was in disgrace, practically drummed out of camp. There was nothing left for me to live for, or strive for. I was practically dead. Then your letter confessing

"Wait," she interrupted, "that letter was untrue, false; it was penned under compulsion. I wrote you again, later, but you had gone, disappeared utterly. I wanted to explain, but your own people even did not know where you were—do not know yet."

He leaned his body against the rail, and looked at her in the dim light. Her face retained much of its girlish attractiveness, yet its undoubted charms no longer held the man captive. He smiled coldly.

"The explanation comes somewhat late," he replied deliberately. "When it might have served me it was not offered—indeed, you had conveniently disappeared. But I am not here to criticize; that is all over with, practically forgotten. I came at your request, and presume you had a reason. May I again ask what it was?"

CHAPTER XVII.

At Cross-Purposes.

She sat for a moment silent, gazing up the street, but breathing heavily. This was not the reception she had anticipated, and it was difficult to determine swiftly what course she had best pursue. Realizing the hold she had once had upon this man, it had never occurred to her mind that her influence had altogether departed. Her beauty had never failed before to win swift victory, and she had trusted now in reviving the old smouldering passion into sudden flame. Yet already she comprehended the utter uselessness of such an expectation—there was no smouldering passion to be fanned; his indifference was not assumed. The discovery angered her, but long experience had brought control; it required only a moment to readjust her faculties, to keep the bitterness out of her voice. When she again faced him it was to speak quietly, with convincing earnestness.

"Yes, I realize it is too late for explanations," she acknowledged, "so I will attempt none. I wished you to know, however, that I did not desert you for that man. This was my principal purpose in sending for you."

"Do you know where he is?"

She hesitated ever so slightly, yet he, watching her closely, noted it.

"No; at the close of the war he came home, commanding the regiment which should have been yours. Within three months he had converted all the family property into cash and departed. There was a rumor that he was engaged in the cattle business."

"You actually expect me to believe all this—that you knew nothing of his plans—were not, indeed, a part of them?"

"I am indifferent as to what you believe," she replied coldly. "But you are ungentlemanly to express yourself so

HOW AN INDIANA GIRL

Got Strong and Well Again at Small Cost.

Miss Alta Abel, of West Baden, Ind., says: "I was a complete wreck, always tired, worn out and nervous. I had to spend about one-third of my time in bed and my life was not worth living. Vinol, your delicious cod liver and iron tonic was recommended, and it has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took in my life. That nervous and tired feeling is all gone. I have gained in health, flesh and strength, until I feel like another person."

Vinol is the most efficient strength creator for such women. It is the medicinal elements of the cod's livers contained in Vinol aided by the blood making and strengthening properties of tonic iron which makes it so far superior to all other tonics to build up health and strength for weak, tired, ailing women. It contains no oil and has a delicious taste.

freely. Why should you say that?"

"Because I chance to know more than you suppose. Never mind how the information reached me; had it been less authentic you might find me how more susceptible to your presence, more choice in my language. A carefully conceived plot drove me from the Confederate service, in which you were as deeply involved as Le Fevre. Its double object was to advance him in rank and get me out of the way. The plan worked perfectly; I could have met and fought either alone, but the two combined broke me utterly. I had no spirit of resistance left. Yet even then—in spite of that miserable letter—I retained faith in you. I returned home to learn the truth from your own lips, only to discover you had already gone. I was a month learning the facts; then I discovered you had married Le Fevre in Richmond; I procured the affidavit of the officiating clergyman. Will you deny now?"

Duty Not to Be Delayed.

He was a railroad man and spoke mostly in railroad terms. He was the father of two boys. One day he invited the minister home to dinner. The hungry boys wanted to pitch in—as usual—but the father, in a stern voice, cautioned them to wait. The minister, bowed his head to return thanks. The boys, innocent of what was being done, began to eat before the blessing was half said. "Excuse me a minute," said the father, addressing the minister, "until I switch a few empties."

His Scholastic Progress.

"Yes, Johnny's doing nicely at school," Mrs. Lapsling said; "and he remembers everything he learns, especially in history. He told me the story the other day about Alexander cutting the gordian knot."

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

BY WALT MASON

At 8 o'clock on New Year's day, I heard Bill Wax, my neighbor, say: "This year will see me leave the hole in which I've long immersed my soul; that hole is GOOD RESOLUTIONS Debt, and from its depths I'll drag myself, this time for keeps. My bank account must be enlarged; I'll buy no goods and have them charged; collectors won't be on my track, nor bailiffs camped around my shack. I'll cut out porterhouse and pie, and pay for everything I buy, and when the year is growing gray I'll have a bundle put away. This vow I surely won't forget—I'm bound to take a fall from Debt!" For many years on New Year's day old William Wax has talked that way; he's asked the gods to witness vows as rigid as the law allows, and for two weeks or maybe three old Bill's as righteous as can be. And then he sees a watch or gun he needs so bad! He has no mon, and so he has the blamed thing charged; and then, such weary roads he's walked, he buys a horse to rest his frame, and gives his note—the same old game; and when the year is growing old the merchants clamor for their gold, and Bill's afraid to go out doors to be run down by creditors. Alas for Bill! Alas for all who have their backs against the wall, their noses on the grinding stone, because they can't let Debt alone!
